Competitive Systems and Practices training establishes Lean Manufacturing principles to a range of industries including financial services, healthcare, warehousing, distribution as well as manufacturing. The Competitive Systems and Practices program has been developed to better cater for a broader range of industries, while supporting key functions like operations, administration, sales, logistics and technical departments.

What's in this program for management?

All strategies rely on successful execution to succeed. Management's best efforts and plans require effective implementation by a motivated and informed team. This program gives management the vital resource of a skilled team focused on producing results that are aligned with your business strategies and objectives.

What's in this program for staff?

Learners achieve a complete understanding of business objectives combined with excellence in detailed operating disciplines. Everyone wants to perform at their best and be recognised for it. This program will develop learners' capabilities to perform their tasks more efficiently and gain maximum job satisfaction by seeing and understanding how their role fits into the overall process. Successful learners gain a nationally recognised qualification for Certificate III or Certificate IV in Competitive Systems and Practices. This is recognised throughout Australia and New Zealand which lifts their value to the business, industry and community.

Where can this lead to?

Training doesn't have to stop at the Certificate III and IV, with Corporate Partners also offering a Diploma in Competitive Systems and Practices as a pathway to continued development of key staff.

Corporate Partners' experience and expertise embeds operational excellence as second nature in your team.

1. Corporate Partners is a Registered Training Organisation delivering the Competitive Systems and Practices Training program, nationally.
2. Corporate Partners expertise in the theory and experience in practical workplace application of Competitive Systems and Practices has led them to develop a unique holistic training process. This ensures staff are trained in skills to help them work more effectively in their own environment as well as within a team.
3. Our learning model focuses on critical business issues concurrently rather than sequentially, resulting in sustainable learning which they can repeat and apply over again.

Learner Skills Program

Typically, the implementation work will be undertaken with a combination of theory and projects. This provides an opportunity to address a specific issue or area and achieve defined outcomes. Corporate Partners programs are delivered through structured on-the-job learning, workshops and include one-to-one guidance and coaching for clients when required. Training and Assessment sessions are conducted with the learners in a client company workplace, on the job, utilising the company's facilities. This program is ideal for skills development and demonstrating competency so any skills program should incorporate or be embedded within real work activities.
